OFFICIAL PAPER OF LEWIS AND CLARKE COUNTY.

REJECTED NOMINATIONS. The council yesterday rejected the nominations sent in several weeks ago by Gov. Leslie for the offices of territorial auditor, treasurer, attorney-general and superintendent of public instruction. The nominee for territorial librarian, Miss Lou Guthrie, was confirmed. The public will construe this action by the council as being based upon partisan motives, for a committee, assisted by expert accountants, failed to discover any flaw in the accounts of the fiduciary officers of the territory, and no complaint | nally Mellette has been governor of has been made against the nominees for attorney general and superintendent of title, attached by courtesy as a handle to public instruction. The legislature has his name, is all of either profit or honor but two days more to sit, and reconsideration of the votes rejecting the nominations is not to be looked for. Possibly orous as Dakota for the expulsion of the governor may send in other names to democrats from office it is hazardous for the council for the offices to be filled, but this is not probable. It is equally improbable that Gov. Leslie will be superseded at this time, and if his nominations are not confirmed the incumbents of the offices will hold "until their successors are duly appointed and qualifled." The words quoted warrant the conclusion that should the governor and council fail to arrive at an understanding before the adjournment of the legislature the incumbents of the four offices named would not be affected by the 1595th section of the compiled statutes, which provides that "No territorial officer shall be entitled to have or receive any salary whatever until the legislative council shall have advised and consented to his appointment, if said officer be appointed to fill a vacancy which existed at the close of a session of a legislative council." The law plainly states that officers once appointed and confirmed "shall hold their offices for two years and until their successors are duly appointed and qualified." At present Gov. Leslie is the chief executive officer of Montana, sworn to perform his official duties to the best of his ability and in accordance with law. So long as he remains in office he has an unquestionable right to choose upon whom he shall bestow the offices in his gift, and for the incumbency of which he is accountable. If he chooses to name democrats for those offices, so long as they are reputable and responsible men he is not infringing any right or precedent. He might, if he elected to do so, fill the of. might, if he elected to do so, fill the offices with his political enemies, which would be an unusual and dangerous thing to do. It is, therefore, more than pimples in the face, and a sure cure for likely that if the governor sends in a new list of nominations it will be com-Liver Pills. Only one for a dose; full box posed of democrats, as the previous one was, and that it will meet with the same treatment at the hands of the council, and this would leave Messrs. Sullivan, Preuitt, Cullen and Logan in their re-cessor in the territorial governorship. In this controversy (if it may be so designated) between the governor and the legislative council, the former has precedent and equity on his side. The council may be acting upon what it considers a principle, but impartial men will not be able to defend its action upon other than political grounds.

FIGHTING OVER THE SPOILS. "young Mr. Harrison," as it terms the son and heir of the house of Tippecanoe The defense is unique, and read between the lines is a fair index to the state of mind which pervades the republican party of Montana at the present juneture, when there are half a dozen territorial offices to be given out and when wires may be laid which shall lead to the senate of the United States. Russell B. Harrison is busily at work in Washand has on occasions succeeded in giving it information regarding the disposition of federal patronage in this territory in advance of the Associated Press, which is supposed to have access ington as correspondent of the Helena Press, which is supposed to have access to all the departments in its search for news for its client journals. This does not necessarily mean that Mr. Harrison is interesting himself in appointments to office, which would be degrading to the profession of journalism, of which he is a shining light, and the suspicion which the Herald appears to entertain that he is doing so is probably unwarranted by the facts. Since the processing piles, and the suspicion which the Herald appears to entertain that he is doing so is probably unwarranted by the facts. The Herald's "defense" has very much the air of a covert threat of what may happen if the alleged attempts of Mr. Harrison to control federal patronage are not discontinued. Says the Herald:

"Young Mr. Harrison's home, hopes and future are here. He knows enough to know if he should interfere with the affairs of Montana, except as one of her citizens, if he should use his kinship to the president to control the least one of these offices against their will, he would do lasting injury to his present fortunes and wholly be destroyed in a near future. He knows enough to know that these people have opinions of their own and rights of their own, among which rights is that of self-government—and that they would indignantly resent the claim that they were a province, possession or suzerainty of any one man with a vigor which would make resistance powerless."

For the father and president the Herald has the following intimation: "His father knows enough of politics to know that he could do that son no more lasting injury in Montana than to permit Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

him as against the wishes of her people to dispense here the federal patronage. He knows that arbitrarily by patronage repu-tations cannot be made and unmade, and that interference with the normal con-ditions here by foreign forces would be deeply offensive to every ladependent Montanian."

Even in the case of a territory so clamthe president to put himself in the attitude of making a nomination for a state office. President Arthur tried it in New York, and the result was overwhelming defeat of his party and candidate.

THE legislative council yesterday reconsidered the vote by which the nomination of Dr. H. M. Holloway to be terri torial veterinary surgeon was rejected some weeks ago, and voted to concur. Dr. Holloway has served the territory faithfully for three years, and deserved reappointment. His office has nothing to do with politics, but the fact that he has always voted the republican ticket may have had something to do with the reconsideration of his case.

THE New York World gave the new president a deal of advice on inauguration day as to how he should avoid the corner lets at $110. big-head; but Gen. Harrison's deep humility had caused him to anticipate the danger, and he took the most effectual incipiency by calling James G. Blaine into his cabinet.
